This fortnight the Pulyeri children have been listening to the story Louise Builds a Boat by Louise Pfanner. This has lead to looking closely at planning a process for making our own boats out of wood. We worked together and planned out an idea, consisting of the materials needed to make the deck and the cabin and then we thought about how to stick it together. The children had fun making their boats and decorating them. After the boats had dried the children got to see if their boat floated.

During our play times there were also opportunities to make individual creations out of craft materials. The children thought about what they wanted to make, what materials they would use and how they would stick them together. Some children made boats, others made houses and another child made a castle.

Other activities that were popular this fortnight included washing the walls and fence, playing with the boat track, pouring bubbly water, playing What’s the Time Mr Wolf?, and making craft faces.

Cheers, Brad
Restorative Justice

At school we use Restorative Justice to successfully reduce conflict and support learners to be in the right place to engage with learning.

The Restorative Justice process involves students in telling their story about what happened that resulted in the conflict.

Story telling is a powerful way of building relationships between people based on respect. The respect is a result of telling your story and having others listen. This experience empowers individuals to act in the interests of the community, as well as their own interests.

The goal is to repair social relationships between students, to reduce conflict and work together for improved whole school relationships.

Persona Dolls

Di Grigg (Cultural Competence Consultant) this year will be working with staff, families and students to develop formal learning opportunities using the Persona Dolls and the Persona Doll kits.

Our Persona Doll family develops cultural understanding and awareness of Aboriginal Identity along with providing many literacy and numeracy opportunities.

Sports Day (Last Day of Term One)

Reminder that Sports Day is Friday 15th April 2016.

Bring family, friends and dogs on a lead
Mark this in your diary——
Put it on the fridge
and
Make sure you come along........
There will be a BBQ by Roy and Rosie for everyone.

School Colours

Any combination of Black, Gold and Green.
Wear them every day with pride.

At Fraser Park Preschool-7 School we have four school values:-
Respect, Caring, Enthusiasm and Fun
We use these values to help students achieve their best with learning, problem solving and developing social skills. We show Respect by being kind, listening to others and looking after our belongings. We show Care by looking after our friends, our school and the environment. We show Enthusiasm by doing our best and wanting to learn. We have Fun by using all of the other values to achieve success and get along with each other.

Fraser Park Preschool-7 School have secured a grant from Sporting Schools Australia. We will have Dave Cohan from National Rugby League visit for two days to teach the students skills and the game of Rugby Tag. This non contact version of the game is a great way to build fitness, learn game sense and have fun. Dave will also engage in skill sessions with all of the classes and additional game sessions with the older students.

Cheers
Russell

The Kungari class are studying the text, My Mob Going to the Beach by Author Sylvia Emmerton and Illustrator Joaunna Elliott.
The Pinyali class are studying The Mouse at the Sea Shore by Author and Illustrator Arnold Lobel.
The two classes combined and travelled by bus on an excursion to the Star of the Sea Marine Centre. The students were able to have a first hand experience of the beach, sea and marine life, giving experience and meaning to their learning in Accelerated Literacy. The students engaged with a wide variety of marine experiences and had FUN with sand, water and sun.

The Pangali class are studying The Mouse at the Sea Shore by Author and Illustrator Arnold Label.
